RAKI Lion's Milk

Anise flavoured aperitif produced by distilling suma grapes in traditional copper alembics. In Turkey, Raki is the unofficial 'national drink', traditionally drunk mixed with water; the dilution causes this alcoholic drink to turn a milky-white colour, and possibly because of its colour, is popularly called “aslan sütü”, meaning “lion's milk”.

Wine Regions of Turkey

Based on agricultural regions

Marmara
Aegean
Mediterranean
Mid-Southern Anatolia
Mid-Northern Anatolia
Mid-Eastern Anatolia
South East Anatolia

Thrace and Marmara: They are located south of Bulgaria and southeast of Greece, bordering the Black Sea, Marmara Sea and the Aegean Sea. They enjoy a typical Mediterranean climate. The Thrace and Marmara wine regions produce about 13.6% of the wine in Turkey.

Aegean region: It is in the western part of Turkey facing the Aegean Sea and Greek Islands. The climate is Mediterranean near the coast and continental on the Anatolian Plateau. The Aegean wine region produces about 52.7% of the wine in Turkey.

Mediterranean region: It is in the south part of Turkey facing the Mediterranean Sea. The Mediterranean wine region produces only 0.2% of the wine in Turkey.

Anatolia region: In Anatolia, the climate is continental with hot and arid summers and cold winters. Sub-regions are located in the South-East near Iraq and Syria, in the East, close to the Black Sea, in the North, near Ankara, and in Cappadocia, in the centre of the country. Anatolia produces about 33.5% of the wine in Turkey.
